

The role of textbooks in the Middle East conflict

ASP 5E3, 21 March 2006, 15h30

hosted by Jana Hybaskova, MEP presented by Yohanan Manor and Dr Arnon Groiss, Center for Monitoring the Impact of Peace (www.edume.org)*

PROGRAMME

1. Findings regarding the textbooks of the Palestinian Authority. Dr. Arnon Groiss, director of research, CMIP (RA);
2. Findings regarding the Israeli textbooks, including those of the religious streams. Dr Yohanan Manor;
3. Findings regarding the textbooks of Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and other Islamic countries in the region. Dr. Arnon Groiss;
4. Case studies in European and EU funding;
5. Recommendations to the EU.

* CMIP is a non-governmental, non-profit organization. CMIP maintains precise, professional standards while studying the content of school textbooks in the greater Middle East. CMIP's reports seek to determine whether children are being taught according to values and ideologies compatible with principles generally accepted by the international community with regard to the “other”, the West, democracy and tolerance, Jews and Israel.